

You loved your last book...but what are you going to read next?

Using our unique guidance tools, Lovereading will help you find new books to keep you inspired and entertained.

---

Extract from...

The Mirabelles

Written by Annie Freud

Published by Picador

All text is copyright © Annie Freud 2010

This Opening Extract is exclusive to Lovereading.
Please print off and read at your leisure.

---

Annie Freud

The Mirabelles

PICADOR POETRY

First published 2010 by Picador
an imprint of Pan Macmillan, a division of Macmillan Publishers Limited Pan Macmillan, 20 New Wharf Road, London N1 9RR
Basingstoke and Oxford
Associated companies throughout the world
www.panmacmillan.com

ISBN 978-0-330-51907-6

Copyright © Annie Freud 2010

Wreathed Jug in Autumn copyright © Kitty Garman 2000

The right of Annie Freud to be identified as the author of this work has been asserted by her in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

'Marc Almond Poem' is based on the article 'Why did I live?', an interview by Simon Hattenstone with Marc Almond. This article appeared on page 12 of the Film & Music section of the Guardian on Friday 8 June 2007.

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in or introduced into a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form, or by any means (electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise) without the prior written permission of the publisher. Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

A CIP catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

Printed in the UK by CPI Mackays, Chatham ME5 8TD

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form of binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

Visit www.picador.com to read more about all our books and to buy them. You will also find features, author interviews and news of any author events, and you can sign up for e-newsletters so that you're always first to hear about our new releases.

for Dave, May, Annabel, Eve, Rose, Carl, Dawn and Barbara

Squid Sonnet

The look you shot me, milk-blue squid of Kimmeridge,
was one of recognition.

To you, I must have seemed an ogre, the kind that mothers warn their children of. Something in you stiffened –

and the whole wild treble-clef of you leapt five foot
clear of the water, then vanished through the bladder-wrack. Love you as I did,
I would have been the death of you.

And so, half-honoured and half-humbled,
I went back along the beach to the obsessive clink
of fossil-hunters' hammers, and the burdened buggies,

over the bridge and up the narrow, foot-worn path
where the eyes of people coming down declined to meet the eyes of those returning to their cars.

Pheasant

Driving home from Winterbourne Abbas
with chipolatas, chops and cheese,
I pass a pheasant dead on the road.
I hit the brakes, put the car in reverse.
Her body is warm, her plumage intact.
I pick her up by her scaly feet
and, laying her gently in the boot,
home I go with my fabulous loot.
Working fast with criminal haste,
I pluck the feathers against the grain,
trying not to tear her skin.
I chop off her feet, her head, her wings,
knocking the knife with the rolling-pin
to make my cuts strike clean.
I open her body and pull out her guts,
her lungs, her heart and pearly eggs;
I throw them out in the unread paper,
setting aside the morsel of liver.
Her flesh is coral brushed with silver,
her fat, the colour of buttercups.

Marrying Strange Men

I cannot dodge you, though I have tried to dodge the fact of your insistence that all anemones be Japanese, that your hand-milk's smell
is redolent of almonds, your allergy to bees,

your wayward toothpicks in their livid green,
your migraines, your eyebrows plucked to non-existence,
your beauty, your invention of the disease
that only those with stripy irises contract,

your love of Proust, your hatred of machines,
your letters from the US full of deprecation
of their Groundhog Day, full of longing for English
laissez-faire, of illustrations of your CAT scans,

venal chiropractors, contemplations on a glass of Pinot Grigio, the walnut shade of Cowper's Tiney,
the acquisition of a bouclé jacket, the prowler in the topiary,
your fear of Hell, your envy of rich women.

The book you meant to write about your life
would have been called Marrying Strange Men.